Gone to College.
Another school term is upon us. Once more Learning opens her doors and invokes our patronage. Teachers are hastening home from their rambles, ready for the toils of another session. Bookstores are thronged with blushing girls and sly-eyed boys in eager pursuit of maps, grammars, slates, book-bags, rulers and pencils. Each morning shows proud and loving parents wending their way to our various halls of science, for the purpose of initiating their children and of securing for them, if possible, seats near the stove—on account, of course, of their peculiar constitutional tendencies to contract colds in winter weather.

This also is the trying season when our boys are sent away to college. In most families, this is a stirring event. For weeks beforehand the mother is busy with needles, sponge and soap, in putting those indispensable clothes in faultless trim. The old gentleman has had several very dry letters from the secretary of the fortunate college to which his radiant son is going. He has made frequent calculations of the expense—each too low—examined his bank account over and over again—decided three or four times that he could not afford the thing, and after all has concluded to "send him anyhow." Bills of unusual size have been made for shoes, coats, hats and trunks. Numerous solemn, but poorly valued, lectures have been read to the young genius, on the sublime themes of taking exercise, strict economy and temperance. The subject of coming home (Christmas has been often agitated—the mother favoring, the old gentleman very much the other way.

With the boy, it is a glorious time. There is something majestic and romantic in the naked idea of going to college. From the time it was determined to send him, his brain has been in a constant reel of intoxicating delight. He has not been able to appear in public, since, without straitening himself to a grave and conscious dignity and fancying that every eye was fixed upon him. He has tried to look grand and manly. He has spread with marvelous industry the news that he was going to college. He feels a new interest in railroads, moustaches, and postage stamps. He combs his hair behind his ears and feels very intellectual. He begs everybody to write to him and promises each boy of his circle to write to him every other Saturday. He begs the girls for their pictures and rings, and promises most sanguinely that they will soon forget him. He gives away his handkerchiefs, his old overcoat and Cornish top. He buys a photograph album and crowds it with every picture he can find.

At home he swells into new and immense importance. His father treats him with a respect bordering on reverence, and gives him a new watch and chain. His mother counts and marks his socks and handkerchiefs, and consolets them with a stray tear or two, gently deposits them in the tray of his large new trunk. His sister pets him fondly, makes him a silver-beaded watch case, and reveals to him that she is engaged to be married. Little brother sits in his lap constantly, hugs him furiously and greatly to the damage of his paper collar, sneers molasses on his blue silk neck-tie, and actually cries to sleep with him, "cos he is goin' away." Even the sable old cook looks to him to grin and admire and to solicit something to remember him by.

Finally, the day comes for him to go—back at the door—old man's voice husky—mother embraces him and weeps, and promises to send a box of eatables—sister, being engaged, and looking for her future support, that very evening, bears the departure of her brother with great firmness—little brother, having broken his whip, is out of humor and sternly refuses to indulge any valdettory courtesies with the young collegian—crack, goes the whip—away flies the hack—and the boy is out and gone to college.—Petersburg Progress.

GILMORE IN CLOVER.—The irrepressible P. S. Gilmore, whose great concert of guns, drums, chimps, goags, to say nothing of strings of instruments by scores, and of hundreds and human voices by thousands, have for eclipsed the fame even of Julius—that illustrious musician in immaculate kids and spotless expanse of shirt front—Gilmore, we repeat, is, according to the London dispatches, preparing new triumphs for himself and his country. He has projected, it is known, an international "peace jubilee" or musical festival, designed to surpass even the great one held at Boston two years ago. We are told by telegraph that the English secretary of war, Mr. Caldwell, has given attentive consideration to his scheme of a "grand international musical festival," to be held in Boston, Mass., on the 17th of June, and has finally promised to the projector of the festival the use of the splendid band of the guards. Mr. Gilmore is next going to Berlin and Paris, at which capital he hopes to obtain permission from the governments of Germany and France for the use of some of the best bands in their military service.

BARMAID SHOWS.—The English have been accustomed to ridicule our baby shows and fatmen exhibitions, but they have lately got up some far more absurd and objectionable, to good taste at least, of their own. There is certainly nothing particularly attractive in the pinking of children, as they complain, or the obesity of a number of overgrown Dutchmen; but they lack the folly of an exhibition of cats, or a show of barmaids, both of which have lately taken place in England. Than the latter nothing can be conceived more reprehensible. Fifty flimsily-dressed girls were congregated in a saloon near London, and all the roués of the metropolis brought down to ogle them. They dispensed, meanwhile, their vials and their liquors, along with their coquetties and their smiles, and it may easily be imagined that it was a speculation highly productive to the entrepreneur, though not likely to be conducive to the advance of morality.—N. Y. Star.

DR. SIMMONS' LIVER
The symptoms of Liver Complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general constive, sometimes alternating with laxness. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the

THE FOLLOWING WILL BE READ WITH INTEREST:
Under date of April 26th, 1871, Dr. HENRY J. ROGERS, of Sharp street, Baltimore, an eminent physician, writes regarding CRYSTAL DISCOVERY:
"It affords me much pleasure to bear testimony as to the efficacy of your Crystal Discovery.
Some years since, while in India, I suffered from a severe fever peculiar to the country. On my recovering, a patch of hair on the left side of my head became perfectly white, and remained so until the remainder. To remove this unsightly appearance, I had recourse to various preparations, both in Europe and in this country; but they all had one great defect—they dyed the hair black. Now, with your Crystal Discovery, I can get the desired shade—the natural color of my hair being dark brown. I consider your Discovery the best preparation I know of."
Yours truly,
HENRY J. ROGERS.

Now as the fact becomes more patent every day that the various dirty and filthy preparations advertised as Renewers, Restoratives, &c., are but compounds of Sugar of Lead and Sulphur, and therefore should be shunned by all who value their health, it is scarcely a matter of surprise that the demand for NATTANS' CRYSTAL DISCOVERY, admitted to be perfectly harmless, and yet accomplish all, and more than the poisonous articles claim to do, should have increased so rapidly. It restores the color and growth of the hair positively in a few days; strengthens the roots, makes an excellent dressing, soiling neither clothes nor scalp; but on the contrary it gives the scalp a pure and cleanly look, removing all dandruff and seurf. It is the most economical preparation in use. Put up in large bottles, at one dollar.

SEWING MACHINES.
THE SINGER STILL TRIUMPHANT.
In 1869 we sold $6,781 machines, and last year 127,823, being 44,000 more than any other machine. From this it will be seen that our rivals in trade have been left far behind us, and the popularity of what is known as our NEW FAMILY MACHINE is steadily and largely increasing. We are not so vain as to suppose that these large sales are due to superior business capacity so much as to the merits of the machine. One hundred and twenty are now in daily use in this city. Machines sold on the most liberal terms. I have 1 Corner, 1 Feller, 1 Hommer, 1 Braider, 1 dozen Needles, &c., given away with each Machine, without extra charge. C. C. BERRY,
